FREE COINAGE.

The Question to Be Debated by the Law Students Society.

Saturday evening the Demosthenian society will debate the question: "Resolved that the United States should adopt the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the aid or consent of any other nation."

The debaters will be Corby, Parker and Frazer on the affirmative and McMinny, Inman and Walker on the negative. There will be other numbers also on the program, which is being arranged by the program committee appointed at the last meeting, consisting of Messrs Walker, Inman and Johnson.

An executive committee has also been appointed, Loucks, Parker and Fleming being named, and Dean S. T. Richardson and his son Ellis G. were made honorary members of the society, as was L. H. McMahan also.

Sharp Corner.

The street corner by the Journal office was a little too sharp for Chris Peterson's four horse team this morning.

They collided with the electric light pole, knocking off the windlass and letting the lantern fall to the street. With the help of bystanders the horses were untangled, the company's men soon fixed up the lighting apparatus, and no damage was done except the breaking of the windlass.

Another Squeal From Albany.

A baby Democrat.

Willamette's professionalism has caused a disbanding of the intercollegiate football league. No college that believes in pure football and amateur sports should play with Willamette. Five of the men are known to be entirely outside of the college, and to have been entered as law students purely for the purpose of filling up the eleven with strong men. It is such conduct that disgraces amateur sports, and the colleges of Oregon should set down on it with all their might.

A BOER AMBUSH.

Concluded from First Page.

Meyer, who was either killed or wounded. The report as to General Joubert probably arose from the fact that his wife has left the Boer camp at Ladysmith for the Free State.

According to the Pietermaritzburg correspondent of the London Outlook, rumors are current in the Natal capital that the Boers contemplate a retreat. It is needless, however, to attach importance to such reports, which are spread in all probability in the hope of luring General White, if possible, to abandon his defensive attitude. Similar rumors are current regarding the Boers at Mafeking and are spread industriously by native spies.

Special dispatches from Lorenzo Marques say that the Transvaal government is exercising a severe censorship over all war news, and will not allow newspapers to leave the country. One correspondent says the Boers are hurrying new commands to Ladysmith, and are declaring that the place must fall speedily in order to liberate their forces, so that these may go to meet General Buller's advance.

Capitulated by Dynamite.

The latest dispatch from Estcourt regarding the armored train engagement says that the train was capitulated by an explosion, presumably dynamite. The engine returned to Estcourt, with two dead fusiliers and the following wounded: Captain Wylie, three non-commissioned officers and nine privates, all belonging to the Durban volunteers.

Another Estcourt correspondent says: "A Boer contingent of 300 men came south of Frere Wednesday, and two companies of mounted troops, Imperial light horse and Natal carbiniers engaged them eight miles from Estcourt. The Boers occupied a strong position on a kopje. The carbiniers worked around on their right and drove the enemy back, whereupon the Imperial light horse opened a brisk fire at medium range, killing several. One man of the Imperial light horse was wounded.

The West Yorkshire regiment, the Prince of Wales' own, commanded by Colonel Kitchener, brother of Lord Kitchener of Khartoum, has arrived at Estcourt from Durban. The troops there "sleep in their boots," and the utmost vigilance is maintained, and it is rumored that some important movement is imminent.

Particulars of Engagement.

"When part of the armored train was overturned by the Boers tearing up the rails, the British alighted and exchanged volleys with the Boers. The engineer driver, when the rails were replaced, seeing the position was hopeless, steamed back to Estcourt with a few of the Dublin and 15 of the Durban, including Captain Wylie, who was wounded, on the train. The fate of the remainder of the Durban and the Dublin and Lieutenant Churchill is unknown."

The Natal Mercury, describing the engagement, says:

"The enemy apparently opened fire with a Maxim and two nine-pounders, getting the range accurately. The fire was so severe that telegraph wires and poles were destroyed. Their guns were posted on a kopje covered with brushwood and their sharpshooters were hidden behind boulders. The Durban and volunteers, fighting an equal battle, thrice drove the enemy back, but the fierceness of the rifle and big gun fire was too much for the brave little party, which was weakened at the outset by the overturning of the trucks hurtling several."

"Later details show that a heavy rain and mist compelled a cessation of firing. Lieutenant Churchill bravely carried the wounded to the rear under fire. While the Boers were destroying the train, their scouts pushed in and exchanged shots with the British pickets, a few miles from Estcourt. It appears that the Boers were in ambush. As soon as the train had passed up they emerged from cover and discharged the sleeper bolts."

Seven of the Durban have just come in, making 23 missing. Only 15 of the Dublin have returned. The Natal seven-pounder, which was in front of the train, had fired three shots, when it was shattered by the Boer artillery. The armored engine has many bullet marks and its dome cover is smashed, as also is its automatic exhaust pipe. The tender is also pitted with bullet marks. It is rumored that Lieutenant Churchill is a prisoner.

Special dispatches from Estcourt estimate the wounded and missing of the armored train contingent at from 163 to 150. The missing include Captain H. Aldane.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CENSUS

The Work Nearly Completed by the Local Organization.

City and Suburbs Thoroughly Canvassed
A Tedious Task, But a Work of Great Value.

The work of canvassing the city and suburbs by the local branch of the Marion County Sunday School Association has been practically completed, but the statistics gathered have not yet been made available.

There was a meeting Wednesday evening, at T. Holverson's store, of the committee which has this work in hand, and the returns that have been handed in were gone over with a view to segregation and tabulation in a shape to make them available for use.

The plan of work has been that suggested by N. J. Damon at the convention held in this city on October 23 and 24, and it has been carried on under the efficient supervision of Mr. Damon, assisted by H. S. Gile and the superintendents of the city Sunday schools.

The city has been thoroughly canvassed, the intention being to call upon every family. The information sought in each case was: Number in the family; nationality; occupation; number of church members and what church they belong to; church preference of those not members; number of children; number attending Sunday school and which Sunday school attended; preference, if any, of those not attending.

This information will all be tabulated and systematized, and the pastor of each church will be furnished a book covering all the data of interest to him or his church or Sunday school. This will give just the information wanted by the officers of each Sunday school, and will indicate the ground which may be profitably cultivated by each. It will give information of value, which it would be practically impossible to gather by individual effort.

It involves an immense amount of work at best, and it is only by united effort and the adoption of a thoroughly systematized plan, devised by N. J. Damon, and under his competent direction, that the desired results have been attained.

The territory which it was desired to cover was divided into 52 numbered districts, and that number of canvassers were appointed. Each one was then given a map of the district which he or she was expected to cover. Not only the city proper but West Salem was included as well as some distance on the Wallace road, Asylum Avenue, the Garden road and other roads, the idea being to take in all the people within reach of the city's Sunday schools.

In practice it was found that some of those appointed were unable to serve. The names of those who did serve in making the canvass are as follows:

J. H. Atwood, F. Aschenbrenner, Miss Carrie Batchelor, Miss Grace Babcock, Miss Carrie Bradshaw, Miss Carrie Campbell, Mrs. Cavenaugh, Mrs. Cornelia, Chas. Crozier, Mrs. Culver, Mrs. Draper, Mrs. Gay, Mrs. Grannis, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Harritt, Mrs. Phoebe Hammer, Miss Irvine, D. Jansen, Miss Blanche Kantner, Mrs. L. Lehman, Mr. Lewis, Fred McIntire, Miss McHaffie, Rev. C. H. Merriman, Miss Anna McNary, Mrs. John Morrison, Miss Meredith, John Moir, Rev. A. E. Myers, Rev. H. L. Pratt, Miss Florence Price, C. D. Purdy, Mrs. John Riggs, Miss Ella Rineman, Miss Lillian Robin, Mrs. Rizer, Miss Ida Stage, Mrs. Spray, Miss Eva Stanton, Mrs. Sylvia Smith, Rev. N. Shupp, Mrs. Vandorol, Miss Maggie Watsonpugh, Miss White and Miss Annona Welch.

Nearly all of these have reported and handed in complete data of their districts. It was hoped to complete the work before next Sunday, but it will be hardly possible to do so.

The gathering of this census is an excellent idea. If properly done it will be of much value in other ways besides in the church work. It should be a more complete and reliable census of the city.

and suburbs than has ever before been taken. This from a business standpoint. From a moral and religious standpoint the work undertaken by the Sunday School Union is highly commendable.

It will bring the people closer together, help to break down the barriers of denominationalism and to eliminate petty jealousies, and tend to place the Sunday school work upon the broad lines of humanity and brotherhood.

The spirit of the time is co-operation and it is eminently fitting that this spirit should take hold of the followers of its first Great Teacher.
